

Meavy to Burrator Reservoir

This is a 2.5 mile circular walk from the Royal Oak at Meavy and takes you up to Burrator Reservoir and back.

You will walk the disused track bed of the railway that once served Princetown and visit the waterfall from the Devonport leat that now flows into the reservoir. On the way back you may well pass an ice cream van but you will walk through a lovely wooded area and see a poem on a wall.

The Royal Oak Inn, Meavy

With the pub on your left walk up the back lane that serves the village all the way to the T junction with the Dousland road.

Go nearly straight across and through a wooden gate

Walk up the short slope and then fork right.

Then in about 100m go over a small granite bridge that goes over the now dried up Plymouth leat.

You are now aiming to get up to the road 25m to the left of the railings you can see under the black arrow in the photo. You can either go the steep route or the leisurely route

Whichever route you take cross over the road and walk up the grassy track next to a post with a public footpath way marker on it.

The path quickly crosses a deep gully and continues up hill

When you reach the disused railway line turn right and follow it....

.....making a minor detour around a missing bridge. You can read all about the railway on this link: https://www.heritagegateway.org.uk/Gateway/Results\_Single.aspx?uid=MDV19112&resourceID=104

When you arrive at a junction with another track turn right and almost immediately .....

..... follow the track around a tight bend

Follow this track all the way to the road passing this fine view of Burrator reservoir on your way

Turn right when you reach the road, perhaps pausing to photograph the waterfall, and walk back to the dam.

At the dam go straight ahead

When the track bends sharply left keep going straight ahead with the now dried up Plymouth leat on your right.

...and follow the well worn path down through the wood

Through two gates ...

... and another one.

The track will then take you to a field and out to the road via a gate which you absolutely must shut

Cross over the road and with the school on your left walk back to the village green and your car.

Or perhaps have drink or a meal in the pub before you leave the village
